TO ENTER MILITARY SERVICE

H. F. Byrd's Resignation as Fuel Administrator for Virginia, Accepted by Dr. Garfield.

H. F. Byrd, who has been serving as United States Fuel Administrator for the state of Virginia since last November, has resigned for the purpose of entering the active military service.

Mr. Byrd resigned in June, but at the urgent request of Dr. Garfield, by reason of the unsettled fuel condition then existing, consented to continue as Fuel Adminjstrtor until conditions improved.

Mr. Byrd has been serving without compensation and has paid his own living expenses at Richmond, his headquarters.

"My Dear Mr. Byrd:

"Your letter of resignation of the second instant is before me, and I am very sorry that you feel constrained to give up your position as state fuel administrator. You were kind enough in June to reconsider your resignation because of the problems in connection with the coal for Virginia that you are helping to solve. I realize that it was a considerable sacrifice on your part that you continued to serve the fuel administration.

"Your desire to enter the military service is patriotic, and presents an argument for your resignation at this time which I cannot refuse. I realize that at this time the War Department needs the services of men as never before, and that every patriotic man of military age feels that he must heed the call. It is for this reason, though I assure you that it is with great reluctance, that I am constrained to accept your registration. At the same time I wish to express to you my deep appreciation of your devotion to your duties as Federal Fuel Administrator for Virginia, and to thank you for your cooperation in the service that we are trying to render to the government at this time.

"With best wishes for your continued success in whatever duties fall to your lot, I am,

Very truly yours,
(Signed) "H. A. Garfield,
'United States Fuel Administrator."

State Fuel Administrator Byrd calls attention of the individual house holder to the necessity for fuel conservation and makes the following pointed suggestions:

Raise window curtains during the day to admit sunlight, for that is free heat. Dispense with awnings, as they shut out the sun.

Weather-strip all doors and windows and put asbestos around all furnaces, boilers, and cellar pipes used for heating purposes.

Reduce the home temperature to 67 degrees. Do not wait until the mercury shows 74 degrees before closing drafts. By this time that extra amount of coal will have been consumed and wasted, according to all economic rules.

Bedrooms, where windows are opened for the night or otherwise, should ab shut off from heat. Use blankets and feel better in the morning.

Wear heavier clothing. This materially saves body heat.

Thoroughly clean soot from pipes and boilers and do not mind doing a little work in the cellar, seeing that window panes are tight and weather-stripped like the other parts of the house.

Use gas for cooking nad heating. Gas lighting at night aids in heating the home, stores and buildings where used.

Use heavy draperies on doors and windows for interior home decoration. This aids in husbanding interior heat supply.

KING RECEIVES GOMPERS.

London, Sept. 24.—Samuel Gompers, president of the America Federation of Labor, and the other members of the labor mission were received by King George yesterday. Mr .Gomper was first received alone. He had a chat with the king on the subject of labor problems and the mission of the American labor leader to England. Subsequetly, the king saw all the members of the mission together. Queen Mary joined them later.

The royal couple engaged in conservation with the members of the mission for more than an hour, both expressing high appreciation of the attitude of labor toward the war, and wishing the Americans a safe return home.

FIRE AT BENDHEIM'S

Firemen Confine Blaze to Basement Where it Originated—Smoke Does Considerable Damage to Stock on Three Floors—Loss Will be Several Thousand Dollars.

Damage to the extent of several thousand dollars was done by fire of undetermined origin which shortly before 8 o'clock this morning was discovered in the basement of the big dry goods establishment of D. Bendheim and Son, 417 and 419 King street.

The fire was discovered by George Nundy, a porter at the store who at once notified the proprietors. An alarm was turned in and soon the fire department had two streams playing on the fire. By their efforts they confined the fire to the basement where it originated.

When the firemen arrived there were dense clouds of black smoke coming from every floor and it continued to pour out of the building until the fire was extinguished.

The entire stock of goods in the store was damaged considerably by smoke, some of it being ruined as a result.

The basement of the store was used as a wholesale department.

Blankets, comforts and an endless variety of other articles in the basement were completely ruined.

The loss of the stock is covered by insurance.

IMPRESSIVE RITES AT FARLTY BURIAL

New York, Sept. 24.—The funeral of John Cardinal Farley, late archbishop of the diocese of New York, at St. Patrick's Cathedral today was attended by the most notable representation of Catholicism New York ever saw.

The nation, State, and city united in honoring the great prelate. Messages mcurning the cardinal's death were read from Pape Benedict, President Wilson, Governor Whitman, of New York; Mayor Hylan, of this city, and from other dignitaries of States, cities, and foreign nations.

Three cardinals, seven archbishops, and fifteen bishops of the Roman Catholic church in America sat within the chancel during the ceremonies which preceded the placing of the body in the cathedral crypt. Cardinals, Gibbons, of Baltimore; O'Connell, of Boston and Begin, of Quebec, with Apostolic delegate Archbishop Bonzano occupied thrones canopied in purple and black, beside the altar.

Zionists to Celebrate.

New York, Sept. 24.—The liberation of Palestine by the British forces will be celebrated here by a demonstration at Carnegie Hall next Sunday night at which Secretary of the Navy Daniels is expected to speak, it was announced yesterday by the Zionist Council of Greater New York .

Significance is added to the celebration, the Council says, by the fact that the Jewish Legion, probably including the Aemrican contingent, is actively participating in the Palestine drive, which so far has liberated all of Samaria and parts of lower Galilee. The capture of Efar-Saba has brought relief to 3,000 starving Jewish refugees, who fled before the advancing Turks to that place, it is stated.

British gains of 15 miles father north will result in the liberation of all the Jewish colonies in Palestine with the exception of a few farms located east of Lake Kinnereth ,the statement adds.

DIES ON TRAIN.

Bishop Currier Was Well Known Here.

Baltimore, Sept. 24.—Bishop Charles Warren Currier, who resigned the bishopric of Matanzas, Cuba, in 1915 and returned to the United States, died suddenly at 6 o'clock last night on a train of the Pennsylvania railroad. He was returning from Waldorf, Md., Charles county, where he administered confirmations Sunday.

Father James O'Reilly, C. M., of the Immaculate Conception on Mosher street, who had given the retreat for children at Waldorf, was with Bishop Currier on the train. Death came as the train was nearing the Frederick Road station. The body was taken through to Union Station, and then removed to Mercy Hospital in the Central District ambulance.

Father O'Reilly stated last night that the bishop complained of slight pains in his chest Sunday and again yesterday morning. Nevertheless, he enojyed an automobile ride yesterday afternoon and left for Baltimore on the 3:30 train. As the train was aproaching the city he again complained of the pains. A few minutes later he gasped and his head suddenly dropped and he fell lifeless from his seat.

Bishop currier was born on the Island of St. Thomas, West Indies March 22, 1857, and was the son of Warren Green and Deborah Heyliger Currier. His father had been a resident of New York. His early education was received in the West Indies. He was ordained in Amsterdam in 1881 by the Rt. Rev. Henry Schapp, Vicar Apostolic of Dutch Guiana.

Shortly after he went to Surinam, Dutch Guiana, where he labored in the ministry for over a year. His health failing, his superiors sent him to the United States. He labored as a Redemptorist for ten years in this country, being stationed principally at Annapolis and Boston.

In 1900 he become pastor of St Mary's Church, Washington. Here he remained until 1907, when he joined the Bureau of Catholic Indian Missions as lecturer. He then traveled extensively in the United States, preaching for the benefit of Catholic education among the Indian tribes of this country.

Some years previously he had represented the United States at the International Congress of Americanists at Stuttgart, Wurtemberg. In 1910 he was commissioned by the State Department, during the administration of President Taft, to represent the United States at the International Congress of Americanists at Buenos Aires, on the occasion of the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Argentine independence.

In 1913 he was nominated to the bishopric of Matanzas, Cuba, and with Cardinal Falconio presiding, he was consecrated at Rome, July 6, 1913. He celebrated his first pontifical high mass at St. Ignatius' Church, Baltimore, the following month.

He is survived by several nieces, one of whom is Mrs. Frank J. Kirby, 110 East North avenue. Others of his nieces are in convents.

ARCHBISHOP LINGERS.

St. Paul. Minn., Sept. 24.—Archbishop John Ireland, of the Roman Catholic diocese of St. Paul, who is seriously ill of heart disease and stomach trouble, became unconscious late yesterday afternoon. It was announced at 5 o'clock that he was "very low."

The last sacraments of the church were administered shortly before noon yesterday. It was anounced that the Archbishop was conscious only part of the time.

Bishop John O'Gorman, of Sioux Falls, administered the sacrament of extreme unction to the dying Archbishop. A number of prominent Bishops and priests were in attedance.

Until yesterday Archbishop Ireland had been conscious throughout his illness.

FOR WAR SUFFERERS

Red Cross Tomorrow Will Open Headquarters at 612 King St., to Receive Discarded Clothing for Imprisoned People in Occupied Belgium and France. Campaign to End September 30.

The women of the local chapter of the Red Cross tomorrow morning will open up headquarters at 612 King street for the purpose of receiving discarded clothing to suply the imprisoned people in occupied Belgium and France. The rooms will be open daily from 10 a. m., until 5.30 p. m. A committee of women from the Red Cross will be on hand every day until September 30 inclusive to receive articles sent. It is expected that there will be a generous response on the part of the citizens.

There is no more worthy purpose to which persons having discarded clothing could use them than in this cause The letters below are self explanatory.

Henry P. Davison,
Chairman Red Cross War Council,
Washington, D. C.

The ten million imprisoned people in occupied Belgium and France are facing shame, suffering, disease, and some of them death for lack of clothing this winter. They must be helped I hope that the Red Cross will undertake a renewed campaign to obtain this clothing in America. It can come only from us. Your first campaign yielded magnificent results, bringing in fully 5,000 tons of clothing in good condition. But much more is needed if these war-ravaged people are to get through the winter in decency and safety. In the face of brutal coercion and spiritual suffering they remain splendidly courageous. This courage challenges our charity. Let us match the courage of Belgium by the generosity of America.

Herbert Hoover.

Letter From Mr. Davison.

My dear Mr. Hoover:

Your cablegram regarding the collection of used and surplus clothing for 10,000,000 imprisoned people in occupied Belgium and France is a call to the Red Cross to assist again in the relief of this stricken population. We have set aside the week of September 23-30 for a special campaign for this purpose. As the need is greater than ever, it is certain that the people of the country will respond even more generously than before Your appeal has been sent to our Chapters through our divisional organization, and our workers, we fee' sure, will be glad to know that they can again be of service in this way

Cordially yours,
(Signed) H. P. Davison,
Chairman Red Cross War Council.

Mr. Herbert Hoover,
The Commission for Relief in Belgium
Washington, D. C.

The Destitute of Belgium and Northern France Need Your Spare Clothing.

Back of the German wall that has hemmed in Belgium and a part of Northern France, ten million human beings look to us for clothing as well as food. We who are well clothed can hardly appreciate in what dire need these people are for lack of necessities. Stocks of clothing and raw material are long since exhausted. There are no imports other than those the Commission for Relief in Belgium has been permitted to make, and these never have been sufficient. The world is now short of both clothing and raw material, so the Commision can no longer purchase what is needed. But you can give it.

Every household in the land has some spare clothing, worn or outgrown, of little use here, but desperately needed by the destitute there. This extract from a letter of a well-to-do lady of Brusels shows the conditions exactly.

"Perhaps you will laugh when you hear that I wear a cloak made from my husband's garde civique overcoat, a waist made from his football shirt, and a skirt made of a dyed bedsheet. Mother had a suit made of the tablecloth, J and M have cloaks made of woolen blankets, and S a dress made of burlap. But all this is only amusing in comparison with the wretched-

WILL EXTRADITE RUBIN

Self Confessed Slayer of Eva Roy to be Turned Over to Fairfax Authorities.

Commonwealth Attorney C. Vernon Ford said this morning Rubin probably would be taken to the Fairfax county jail either late this afternoon or Wednesday morning.

A typewritten report of all evidence taken in the half-dozen examinations by District detectives has been forwarded to the Fairfax Commonwealth attorney. The Commonwealth is taking no chance of Rubin not being the slayer, and in all probability will take him to the scene of the crime some time this week to clear up several physical features in connection with his confessions which the District officers state are confusing.

Each day additional charges are brought against him. The latest charges are that he visited the bathing beach at Tidal Basin and stole the personal property of bathers. This was made known when the detectives recovered property by means of pawn tickets found on his person .

Among the articles were several watches, one valued at $60 and owned by Hawley W. Anderson, 1800 Belmont road. Mr. Anderson said he went to the beach on August 7, checked his watch, a stickpin, and $10 in money, and instead of wearing the check, he left in in his locker.

So many offenses committed in the District are added each day, Rubin may be tried here before he is arraigned for the murder of Eva Roy.

AUTOMOBILE GOT AWAY FROM HIM

There was but one case before the Police Court this morning. A negro youth had been arrested by Sergeant Scott for carelessness in operating an automobile. The machine, the accused said, got away from him near the intersection of Prince and Royal streets and mounted the pavement near the northeast corner. In its course the auto crushed a small wagon used by Henry Baker from which to deliver newspapers and damaged the store window of Reece Caton. The negro acknowledged he was an amateur in handling automobiles and "just learning." He was fined $5.

WOUNDED IN LEG IN ACTION; NOW IN HOSPITAL IN ENGLAND

Corporal William B. Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Richards, Seminary Hill, Alexandria county, who was wounded in France August 14, has written a letter to his parents in which he states that his injury consists of a wound in the right leg below the knee which he received after being in the trenches four hours. Corporal Richards in his letter says he now is in the base hospital in England and is getting along very well.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of F. E. LUDWIG, who departed this life September 20, 1917.

No one knows how we have missed you
In the year, that has just gone by
When you left us sad and lonely
For your home up in the sky.

And though our family circle is broken,
And the parting has filled us with pain,
We behold as a glorious token
The bright hope of meeting again.

BULGARS IN RETREAT

London, Sept. 24.—The Bulgarian center and left in Macedonia have collapsed as a result of the Serbian menace to their right. It was officially announced last night that the Bulgars have evacuated their whole line between Doiran and the Vardar River. The British are pursuing them and have reached the line Kara-Ogular-Hamzali. They are a little less than a mile south of Bogdance. West of the Vardar they are moving on Mrzenci.

London, Sept. 24.—Two entire Turkish armies—the Seventh and Eighth—have been wiped out by General Sir Edmund Allenby's great surprise blow struck last week, culminating in the occupation of Nazareth, El Afule and Beisan.

This means the destruction or capture of 40,000 Turks. Twenty-five thousand of them are prisoners. Many thousand more captives have not yet been counted. Some 10,000 are hopelessly trapped as a result of the capture by the British of the Jordan crossing at Jisn-ed-Dameer.

So far 260 captured guns have been counted.

The entire transport service of the two trapped armies has fallen into British hands.

As this is filed official word reaches here that the Bulgars, menaced on their right flank by the sustained Serbian advance and under strong pressure from the British and Greeks, have evacuated their whole line from Dorian to the Vardar River, setting fire to villages and ammunition dumps. The Bristish are closely following the enemy. Columns of troops and transports are crowding the roads. British bombing planes are harassing the northward retreat.

The British at last accounts had reached the line Kara-Ogular-Hamzali, and were only a kilometer (five-eighths of a mile) south of Bogdance. West of the Vardar they are advancing in the direction of Mrzenci.

STRONG POINT FALLS

London, Sept. 24.—The British have captured a German strongpoint northeast of Epehy, which had resisted for several days, according to Field Marshal Haig's reorpt from headquarters last night.

British forces Sunday night attacked the German lines between St. Quentin and Cambrai, opposite Le Catelet, making progress in the vicinity of Tombois farm and capturing a group of trenches and strong points on the ridge northwest of Vendhuile. Field Marshal Haig announced in his official statement today.

Another enemy strong point near the Roissoy-Bony road, just to the south, also was taken by the British. A successful local attack was carried out south of Villers-Guislain.

German troops late Sunday counter attacked in the vicinity of Gillemont farm, on the front between Gauche and St. Quentin, to the west of Catelet. Field Marshal Haig's statement yesterday announces the repulse of the enemy with heavy losses.

Northwest of St. Quentin the Germans penetrated the British line at one point at Berthaucourt during an attack. The position was re-established by a counter attack.

On the front between Arras and Lens there was a continuation of the advance movement in the neighborhood of Gavrelle. Southeast of that village English troops made progress on a front of three-quarters of a mile.

BELLS WERE MUTE

Recently the ringing of bells in Alexandria when fires occur during the day has been cut out. The engine houses are notified that the services of the department are needed at a certain place and the apparatus is soon on hand and at work before most of the people know a fire is raging. Early this morning a fire was discovered in the basement of Bendheim's dry goods store on King street, between Royal and Pitt, and the engines proceeded to the scene without the ringing of bells.

A third of a century or more ago a well-known and respected citizen of Alexandria, a man of a domestic nature who realized the truth of the saying that "true happiness is of a quiet nature, an enemy to pomp and noise," was sandwiched between two bells, which were sounded often. The citizen referred to was of a nervous mould, and he occasionally contributed communications to the Gazette in which he contended that bell-ringing was unnecessary in a city. He long since passed into another world where "Peace, sweet peace," prevails.

The present war is causing many transitions. In Teutonic countries the people are taking down bells and utilizing them in the manufacture of munitions. Many thus commandeered will probably never be replaced.

Edgar Allan Poe's poem, "The Bells," does not appeal to every one, and were the Alexandrian referred to alive today he would doubtless rejoice in the changed conditions.

CHRISTIAN BROTHERHOOD

An army chaplain of the Episcopal persuasion tells of some experiences he had on the Western front when his regiment was quartered in a little town. The Huns had destroyed everything there, not even leaving a building to hold services. A part of his story is as follows:

"Finally I went to see the Roman Catholic chaplain, a fine, broad, big-hearted Irishman from Boston. 'Why not use the church he said at once. 'But I thought it was destroyed, and anyway. I didn't suppose you'd let me,' I answered. Well, they had put a roof on in place of the original one, and the altar hadn't been hurt, so at 8 o'clock in the morning he said mass in the church, at 8:45 I had my Protestant communion service, and at 9:30 there was another mass."

In commenting on the above a contemporary says:

"In this little narrative we can see the beautiful logic of the war. The sacrifice on the awful battle line is not far different from that of Calvary, for in each case the blood is shed for all. We are not going to be so hidebound in our religious views and practices when the battles for freedom and civilization have been won. There will doubtless be Catholics, Methodists and Jews after the war is over, but they will love one another."

HOSTAGES ON TRAINS

An old resident recently asked us if we could give the names of the Alexandrians who were placed on trains on the Manassas Division of the Southern Railway during the last year of the civil war. We could recall the names of but few at the time, but a few days ago a friend turned over most of the files of the Gazette from the years 1862 to 1865 inclusive. The names as given in the Gazette of Monday, October 17, 1864, were: John B. Daingerfield, W. Arthur Taylor, Rev. C. C. Biting, Edgar Snowden, Jr., one of the editors of the Gazette, T. B. Robertson, Dr. D. M. French, J. W. Stewart, Dr J. B. Johnson, James E. McGraw and James A. English.

A few days previous to the arrest of these Alexandrians a train had been attacked by Mosby's command and several persons killed, among them Superintendent M'Crickett. The hostages were placed in box cars every morning and compelled to make a round trip to Strasburg. They were kept under a military guard off trains on the second floor of the building on the northeast corner of Fairfax and Fayette alley.

AWAY WITH HIM!"

Patriotic firms in Philadelphia have contributed a page advertisement to the papers of that city in championing the Liberty Loan movement. A picture takes up most of the space. It represents the bloodthirsty Kaiser with the Crown Prince at his left and Hindenburg behind him watching murderous cannon belch in bombarding homes and churches. The following appears at the side of the picture:

"This man has thrown down the gauntlet to mankind he has assumed to appropriate God to serve his own purposes as a tribal, Teutonic deity. He has set his Prussian 'Kultur' against the humanity of the world. He has defied international law, honor and justice. He has brutalized his own people, and sent them forth to ride rough-shod over the decent people of the earth. And when our manhood answered the challenge he shouted, 'America shall pay for this.' Away with him! The world cannot tolerate this blasphemer, despot, self-styled, superman."

DANIEL'S ANTICIPATIONS.

"I have only one important engagement on my calendar at Washington, and that is to march behind the United States Marine Band and nearly two million of Pershing's soldiers when they make that final parade through the streets of Berlin," said Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, addressing over 15,000 munition workers of the rifle plant at Eddystone yesterday.

The celebration was called in honor of the completion of a contract with the Government to supply the American troops with 1,000,000 rifles. This work was finished in exactly one year from the date of the awarding of the contract, and is considered a world's record by War Department officials.

ALEXANDRIA PROSPERING

Alexandria is in good luck and to our nearest neighboring city we send our congratulations and best wishes for continuance of her prosperity and success. A very large torpedo assembling plant is now being erected and located in that city. The property for it has been already surveyed and selected by the government for that purpose. This great government work will employ two thousand highly skilled workers, which means that the population of Alexandria will be largely increased with business and commercial enterprises of all kinds, and the detailed story of how this city obtained all this great plant is interesting. On July 8, Hon. C. C. Carlin, the able, loyal, patriotic and energetic representative in Congress from the Eighth District, called up the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, stating that an appropriation had been made for such a plant, called it to the consideration and attention of the Chamber of Commerce. Then well-directed, organized work was commenced by Mr. Carlin and the proper committee of the Chamber of Commerce, including the present Judge S. G. Brent, and the result is the establishment at Alexandria of this very valuable plant, which will be a very important asset for the increased prosperity and upbuilding of the city of Alexandria. The lesson to all of which is that to have a local representative in the Legislature and in Congress alive to the interest of his people is of inestimable value to any city. We in Fredericksburg should recognize and appreciate all this. We should stand together for the good and welfare of Fredericksburg. We should strive hard always have if possible men in Congress and the Legislature who are interested in our city.—Fredericksburg Free-Lance.

IS NEW YORK WORTH WHILE?

Her Tremendous Waste of Power, Labor and Material a Matter of National Concern.

For a hundred generations humanity has burdened itself with toil and drudgery that nature stood ready to perform, freely and efficiency, whenever the harness was made ready for her; and, notwithstanding our much-heralded modern inventions, only an insignificant part of our great natural reservoirs of power is being used by us.

Here and there water has for generations been allowed to turn the wheels of some little mill or factory but the enormous power of our rivers is even now almost entirely wasted, and the constant incalculably great and universally available power of solar heat is still unused by us, while the lives of many thousands of our people are being consumed in the arduous labor of extracting from the bowels of the earth vast quantities of coal for power purposes. Moreover, a very large percentage of this coal is consumed by our railroads in the transportation of such fuel to manufacturing plants and industries hundreds of miles distant from the mines, thereby causing a huge waste which could be almost entirely saved by locating such industries in the vicinity of our natural power resources or by converting such power into electrical energy and transmitting it by cables to the points where needed.

In the maintenance of a big city like New York there is an enormous waste due to the concentration of millions of people at a single point on the earth's broad surface, far remote from all readily available sources of power, without any regard for the economic loss involved. Had the American people stopped to think there could hardly have been such a monstrous economic blunder as New York City, with its huge waste of human and mechanical energy, due to the fact that all of the coal and raw material needed by its thousands of industries for power and other manufacturing purposes, as well as all of the food, fuel and even the drinking water needed for its people, must be brought from remote points.

Then, too, New York City not only lacks sufficient supplies of power and raw material for its industries, and food for its people, but it also lacks space in which to accommodate its vast hordes of humanity. The little plot of ground into which its millions crowd themselves is hardly sufficient for comfortable standing room and is utterly inadequate for necessary traveling, working, and living purposes; consequently large numbers of structures have been built, many stories into the air and also beneath the ground, for use as dwellings, stores, offices, factories, etc., and for this purpose immense quantities of wood, stone, brick, iron steel and other building supplies and equipment have been consumed; likewise, in order to increase, as far as possible, the city's utterly inadequate transportation facilities, many overhead and underground electric lines have been constructed—all of which has greatly added to the enormous total of New York's waste.

The transportation of hundreds of millions of tons of fuel, raw material, machinery, food, etc., from far-distant points to New York for manufacturing purposes and the maintenance of its workers, and the re-transportation of the resultant manufactured products back over practically the same lines for purposes of distribution and consumption, seem almost as absurd and economically indefensible as it would be to grow grain for Cairo in the middle of the Sahara Desert and to transport the necessary seed, water, food, agricultural implements, etc., by camel through that great barren waste, instead of growing the grain on the banks of the Nile where it receives necessary moisture through the natural rise and fall of the water and where seed and other supplies are readily available.

Surely, conditions causing such huge waste—even considering the loss of power alone and without regard to the serious impairment of the health and vitality of New York's many thousands of workers which results from congested and otherwise unhealthy living and working conditions—call for serious consideration not only by New York City itself but also by the state and the nation, for all such waste, whether in New York or elsewhere, means correspondingly heavy economic burdens for the whole country.

"HIS LETTERS."

I'd like to write a letter home and pour out all my woes,
And tell the old folks how my socks are minus heels and toes,
And what I'd give to have a piece of mom's fried chicken now,
And how all-fired sick I get of eating army chow,
And that I'd take it kindly if they'd send me some tobac
And tins of talc to soothe the bites that put me on the rack,
And that I wish they'd pay the tin I borrowed off Bill Draper—
But dad would surely go and put my missive in the paper.

I'd love to write my brother Joe about the demoiselle
Who does my washing in the creek, and does it mighty well.
Her eyes are soft as velvet, and her cheek is like a peach,
And "parley voo, M'sieu" to me she's volunteered to teach.
But there is Susie Simpson—she'd get mad and publish all
The gush I used to pen to her the nights I couldn't call
About her rosebud lips, you know, and waist so trim and taper,
For everything a soldier writes these days goes in the paper.
So when I sit me down to scrawl a hastly page or two
Addressed to dad or mom or Joe ac across the billows blue,
I merely say it rains today, the mud is getting fine,
And we are busy reeling in the far-flung German line,
And I've received a medal that the C. O. pinned on me,
Or D. S. O. or Cross de Guerre or maybe a V. C.
For decorations seem just now to be the proper caper,

WAR SUFFERERS

ness of the population. After all, we remain calm and confident of victory."

A recent Brussels advertisement says: "I will give up 125 francs ($25) for new or worn bedsheets." There is an immediate need for every sort of garment, blankets, sheets and shoes.

The very wonderful results of the clothing campaign of last March assisted in helping to meet the demands, but when we realize that there are ten million inhabitants in the occupied regions, most of whom must look to the outside world for protection against the rigors of winter, it is seen that we cannot send too much. As long as the War lasts, Belgium and occupied France must depend chiefly on supply of garments which are so much supply of garments which are so much needed, we appeal again to the generosity of the American Public to give and give largely.

The Kind of Garments Needed.

Every kind of garment, for all ages and both sexes, is urgently needed. In addition, piece goods-light, warm canton flannel, and other kinds of cloth from which to make garments for new born babies, ticking, sheeting, and blankets, woolen goods of any kind—and shoes of every size are asked for. Scrap leather is needed for repairing footwear.

Since the clothes will be subjected to the hardest kind of wear, only garments made of strong and durable materials should be sent. It is useless to offer to any afflicted population garments of flimsy material or gaudy coloring. Make the gifts practical.

Garments need not be in perfect condition. A hundred thousand destitute women in the occupied regions are eager to earn a small livelihood by repairing gift clothing and making new garments adapted to needs with which they are familiar.

Garments needed, Men's wear.—Shirts (preferably of light colored flannels) undershirts, underdrawers, trousers, coats, work-suits (overalls), suits (3 piece) shoes, overcoats, jerseys, sweater- vests, socks (sizes 10 1-2 and all).

Women's wear.—Skirts, drawers, corset-slips, petticoats blouses, skirts, overcoats, suits (2 piece), pinafores, shoes, cloth hats knitted caps stockings (sizes 7, 8, 9, 10).

Woolen goods of any kind whatsoever are acceptable; soft hats and caps for all ages, and sweaters of any kind and size.

Men's shirts and pajamas, so worn or shrunken as no longer to be serviceable are particularly welcome, since the material can be utilized for making children's garments.

Do not send—Garments of flimsy material or gaudy coloring, ball dresses, high heeled slippers, etc.

Stiff hats either men's or women's straw, dress or derby.

Anything containing rubber, raincoats, rubber boots, etc.

Books, toys, soap, toilet articles:

Notes or communications of any sort or description must positively not be sent.

NOTHING IF NOT.

Rainey Day was nothing if not resourceful. Yet at last he was facing a combination of circumstances that made even his masterful brain pale, so to speak. For he had a date to take the most beautiful creature in the world out to dine, and a scent of tobacco was the only scent he had in his pockets, and even that was very faint. However, he managed to borrow a quarter from Gustie Knight.

When he met he at the usual place, a hungry expression on her classic features, his face lighted up as with a sudden idea.

"I'll tell you what!" he cried. "Let's eat a messenger boy's lunch— you know, buy hot doggie sandwiches from a pushcart man, and eat them right on the street! Just for fun!"

"Your ideas are always wonderful, Rainey," she replied, "only just now I'm in the humor to eat at some fashionable restaurant with a small orchestra and large portions."

So he took her to Swank's, and while she tenderly perused the menu he reached over to the next table and abstracted a large plate of bread and a pat of butter.

"Really," she said at length, "I just don't know what to order. Candied veal sounds good, and so does stuffed young gooby by marple sauce."

"Look!" he said. "I've made some East African relish balls with little pellets of bread and butter and Worcester sauce. Try one."

"The parcelled turkey here is good, --have another relish ball," he said. "Or how about—another relish ball? —how about some rift birds with lute dressing? Have another relish ball."

And he kept her undecided what to order until she had eaten forty-seven bread pellets, and by that time she wasn't hungry any more. So they got up and walked out, and he walked her home and spent the rest of the evening on her front steps, telling her of his experiences on the border. For he was nothing if not resourceful.

VIOLATED GASLESS RULE

Crowd Releases Air From Tires And Hoots Prominent Citizen.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—Because he drove to church in his automobile on "gasless Sunday," E. Wager-Smith, of Marshall road near Wycombe avenue, Lansdowne, faced a patriotic demonstration by indignant citizens of that suburb yesterday in front of St. John's Episcopal Church, Baltimore and Lansdowne avenues.

While Wager-Smith was in church the crowd assembled around his big automobile, which had been left standing outside, let all the air out of his tires and attached a sign to the car, reading: "Why don't you walk? The air will do you good. You are a slacker."

When Wager-Smith came out of church the crowd was still standing around his car. He was hooted by the crowd and grew angry. Mounting the step of the car, he faced the indignant citizens and called them "a bunch of skunks." He also said he felt justified in using his car on Sunday because he is a director of the Lansdowne branch of the Red Cross and his wife is chairman of the women's chapter, working hard every day for the cause.

The crowd remained silent, but refused to move, watching the man's vain efforts to get the car under way with its flat tires. Chief of Police William M. Munch happened along and tried to assist Wager-Smith, amid the grins of the crowd. Finally the man had to telephone to his son to bring around another of his cars to haul the disabled machine home. Meanwhile, Rev. Croswell McBee, rector of the church, came out and helped Wager-Smith move his car. He also spoke to the crowd, declaring that he believed Wager-Smith had been punished enough, if there was any occasion for punishment, and asking them to disperse.

It was some time before Wager-Smith was able to move his car. Throughout the scene the crowd was quiet and orderly.

P. F. Piatka, a farmer residing about eight miles from Disputanta station on the Norfolk and Western Railway, Sunday night shot and killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Lipp, and then took his own life. The tragedy is said to have been the outcome of a quarrel between Piatka and his wife. Mrs. Piatka went to the home of her parents, a few miles from Disputanta, and there the killing of Mrs. Lipp occurred. After killing Mrs Lipp, Piatka went into the woods a short distance and fired a bullet into his head.

Thadeus Davenport, aged 24, a grocer of Petersburg, shot and killed himself at his home, over his store Sunday. Mrs. Davenport found her husband lying on the floor of the hallway shot through the head.

FOCH WOULD GAGE CITIES

Advance in King Albert, to Prevent Hun, Vandalism.

London, Sept. 24.—There are more than purely military reasons why the United States army attacked in the so long quiet sector on the Eastern frontier of France and why the tide of battle seems destined to flow in that direction as indicated by Marshal Foch's cablegram promising the Knights of Columbus that the victorious standards of America and France will some time float over Metz.

The French have long feared an ultimate victorious advance which would provoke the retreating enemy to burn and destroy Lille, Tourcoing, Roubaix and other great cities in the industrial north and would so do in his hour of defeat a hundredfold the damage done in France since the beginning of the war.

Rheims is the only great city so far destroyed. Belgium has expressed the same fear for Brussels, Ghent, Bruges and Antwerp.

Therefore the strongest reason exists for a threatening advance into Germany itself. It is argued here that with the Americans on the Rhine at Christmas or even next spring, menacing the Rhine cities and perhaps threatening an advance on Munich, the clamor of these regions and of the whole German people will be so great that Hindenburg will not dare to give the order for a retirement from France and Belgium with the use of the torch and explosive.

This is only likely if the Germans feel that their own firesides are menaced. Hence, Pershing's St. Mihiel victory, and others which it is hoped are to follow, will do all that human foresight can suggest to save the rich and priceless regions as yet undesolated.

The suggestion is now reiterated everywhere that Germany be told that for every city she destroys from now on a corresponding German city will be laid in ashes.

But it is pointed out that for this threat to be effective the enemy must believe in our power to carry it out—and the American campaign may instill that belief.

TROLLEY CAR KILLS GIRL

Soldier She Was About to Marry Was Waiting at Her Home.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—Two hours before she was to be married to a soldier yesterday afternoon, Mary Strugala, 22 years old, was killed by a trolley car at Cambria and Edgemont streets.

The accident happened at 1 o'clock and the marriage had been set for 3 o'clock, in St. Adalbert's Church, Thompson street and East Allegheny avenue. The soldier she was to wed is Frank J. Jones, a Polish boy drafted last September, sent to Camp Meade and later transferred as a guard to Edgemont Arsenal, Maryland. He got a furlough last Friday and came to the city to prepare for the marriage, and was at her home when the news of the accident reached him.

She left home before noon yesterday to buy a hat and some other articles of dress for the marriage, and was carrying a new hat in a large box

CRITICISES OWN WAR LORDS

Kaiser Censored for Speech to Krupp Employes.

London, Sept. 24.—The German war lord is no longer immune from criticism by some of his subjects. The Munchner Post recently drew attention to the Kaiser's reference to the entente attitude toward Germany and plainly told him he did not know what he was talking about.

The Chemnitz Volkestimme, organ of German official Socialists, in discussing the Kaiser's speech to Krupp's workmen, says the government purely does not imagine that the Kaiser's speech made any impression at home or abroad. In domestic countries, the paper adds, the patriarchial feeling in which the Kaiser believed he was giving feeling expression is simply not understood and consequently "comments on the imperial speech cannot be reproduced in the German press."

NEWS OF THE DAY

An unusually thrilling story of a three-hour running fight with a German U-boat, ending with the sinking of the latter by a well-directed shot, was told yesterday when a British freighter on her maiden trip came into an American port with eleven shell holes in her hull, her masts shot away, her deck scarred and splintered and her lifeboats riddled by shell splinters.

News of more bloodshed came from Russia to the State Department yesterday. The mass terrorism that brought about this country's message to the civilized world asking for expressions of horror at the slaughter is still in progress.

A German army order signed by Gen. Kylander, which has fallen into American hands, complains that his troops have been robbing American prisoners of their watches and rings. The document threatens severe treatment for German soldiers caught committing such thefts.

The negotiations between Russia and Finland have been interrupted owing to disagreement, according to Petrograd advices. Finland demanded teh whole of eastern Karolina, control of the Murman coast railway as well as Kola Peninsula.

Heavy frost did much damage to late vegetables and peaches throughout Western Maryland Sunday night.

Nine hundred bicycles, varying from wrecks to brand-new expensive machines, have been stolen on the streets of Washington since the first of the year. The yearly average of stolen bicycles for the past few years varies from 1,200 to 1,500, only 25 per cent of which are ever recovered and returned to their owners.

Austria will not desist from her peace agitation, Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister stated in an interview with Theodor Wolff, editor of the Berliner Tageblatt, according to Berlin dispatches Baron Burian is quoted as saying: "Even though we may be unsuccessful in opening the way for peace we are not going to remain idle. We must employ every minute to advance the peace agitation."

The situation between Germany and Spain has again taken a serious turn. The final word of the Berlin government regarding the U-boat controversy, according to authoritative information, is that Germany "forbids" Spain to seize German tonnage for Spanish vessels sunk as Spain has threatened to do. The German ambassador to Spain is quoted as having said in private conversation: "One country, more or less, against us makes little difference."

Fredericksburg officers Sunday captured an automobile loaded with whisky and arrested the driver, James Nathaniel Johnson, of Hopewell. When the car was unloaded it was found 496 pints of whisky were counted. Johnson will be tried on the charge of transporting liquor, and also with carrying a concealed weapon. After the authorities here finish with him, he will be turned over to the Federal authorities, by whom he is wanted. Over 2,000 pints of whisky have been seized in automobiles passing through Fredericksburg within the past ten days.
